THE APPRAISAL

Stage 1

Review of past performance, previous objectives, issues encountered and any variation from and to the job description.

Stage 2

Agree future tasks, objectives, and training/development opportunities.

BEST PRACTICE FOR APPRAISALS

Be specific. Listening is important as talking. The appraiser and appraisee should aim to share the talking equally.

Be open and positive. The atmosphere should be of openness and trust. Any criticism given by the appraiser or appraisee should be constructive.

No surprises. It is not the appropriate time to introduce new information, particularly of a critical nature at an appraisal interview. Any performance issues should be raised with the employee at the time they occur and not held back to handle at the appraisal.

Confidentiality. Only the appraiser(s) and appraisee will see the appraisal record, one copy will be given to the appraisee, and one held in the confidential personnel file. The fact that the appraisal has taken place will be reported to council, together with any recommendation, but not the content of the appraisal.

PROCEDURE

If you are dissatisfied with the outcome of the appraisal interview you should discuss the matter with the Chairman, or if the Chairman is the appraiser, the chairman of the Staffing Committee to resolve.

APPRAISER GUIDE

GETTING THE MOST FROM THE APPRAISAL INTERVIEW

The appraisal interview will cover a review of objectives and attainments, a discussion about skills and knowledge as applied in the workplace, feedback from others in the organisation or significant external contacts, feedback from the employee to their line manager/elected members, future challenges and development needs and will seek to set new objectives for the coming year. The GROW model is a useful approach to exploring aspirations and direction when Training and Development are discussed.

G	Goals	what do you want?
R	Reality	what is happening now?
O	Options	what could you do
W	Way forward	what will you do?

SETTING OBJECTIVES

Objectives provide framework for the coming year's work. They should be agreed between appraiser and appraisee. The objectives need to reflect the employee's job description and the council's own objectives derived from its strategic and business plans. Such targets are sometimes referred to as Key Performance Indicators (KPIs). Often objectives will set a higher standard for performance than before, designate, additional responsibility or assign new projects. It is usual to aim for around 6 to 8 main objectives, any more can be over-stretching. It is good practice to have one personal development objective within the set agreed to encourage CPD to occur.

Effective objectives should be S.M.A.R.T.:

1. Specific: The objective should refer to a particular task or piece of work or specific aspects of behaviour or performance.
2. Measurable: There should be measures (quantitative or qualitative) which are clearly agreed and understood; these will enable progress and achievement to be monitored and recognised.
3. Agreed: The objective should be agreed by the appraisee and appraiser.
4. Realistic: The objective should be designed to be challenging for the appraisee but should not be so demanding that there is high likelihood of failure.
5. Timed: All objectives should have a date by which they are to be achieved.

There are three steps in setting effective objectives

1. Select the part of the job to which the objective will relate.
2. Agree what is the result to be achieved within that area.
3. Settle how the result will be achieved and the steps that the appraisee will need to take : these are standards of performance.
